

You are writing a letter to an exchange student from Chile who is coming to live with you. You want to give him/her as much information as you can about yourself and your family. Start the letter, introduce yourself, describe yourself (name, age, where you live, physical description as well as a description of your personality, likes and dislikes, hobbies. Talk about your family and give a brief description of each member...physical and personality. Describe where you live and what the weather is like. Describe your school and schedule. Give a quick description of your daily routine. Ask your friend a few questions. Sign off.

You are writing a letter to an exchange student from Chile who is coming to live with you. You want to give him/her as much information as you can about yourself and your family. Start the letter, introduce yourself, describe yourself (name, age, where you live, physical description as well as a description of your personality, likes and dislikes, hobbies. Talk about your family and give a brief description of each member...physical and personality. Describe where you live and what the weather is like. Describe your school and schedule. Give a quick description of your daily routine. Ask your friend a few questions. Sign off.

You are writing a letter to an exchange student from Chile who is coming to live with you. You want to give him/her as much information as you can about yourself and your family. Start the letter, introduce yourself, describe yourself (name, age, where you live, physical description as well as a description of your personality, likes and dislikes, hobbies. Talk about your family and give a brief description of each member...physical and personality. Describe where you live and what the weather is like. Describe your school and schedule. Give a quick description of your daily routine. Ask your friend a few questions. Sign off.

You are writing a letter to an exchange student from Chile who is coming to live with you. You want to give him/her as much information as you can about yourself and your family. Start the letter, introduce yourself, describe yourself (name, age, where you live, physical description as well as a description of your personality, likes and dislikes, hobbies. Talk about your family and give a brief description of each member...physical and personality. Describe where you live and what the weather is like. Describe your school and schedule. Give a quick description of your daily routine. Ask your friend a few questions. Sign off.

You are writing a letter to an exchange student from Chile who is coming to live with you. You want to give him/her as much information as you can about yourself and your family. Start the letter, introduce yourself, describe yourself (name, age, where you live, physical description as well as a description of your personality, likes and dislikes, hobbies. Talk about your family and give a brief description of each member...physical and personality. Describe where you live and what the weather is like. Describe your school and schedule. Give a quick description of your daily routine. Ask your friend a few questions. Sign off.

You are writing a letter to an exchange student from Chile who is coming to live with you. You want to give him/her as much information as you can about yourself and your family. Start the letter, introduce yourself, describe yourself (name, age, where you live, physical description as well as a description of your personality, likes and dislikes, hobbies. Talk about your family and give a brief description of each member...physical and personality. Describe where you live and what the weather is like. Describe your school and schedule. Give a quick description of your daily routine. Ask your friend a few questions. Sign off.